"With coal in Italy selling for $140 a monthly s on and France's supply within range rect and indirect requirements of 'he United States and our allies will demand all the steel that this country can produce this year at least."

That was the message delivered to the members of the American Iron and Steel Institute at their annual banquet at the Waldorf last night by J. Leonard Replogle, formerly of the Midvale | our rights, which we shall do, and we Steel Company and now the steel representative on the War Industries Board. He continued:

16,800,000 tons on our books, and the orders are still coming in. The requirenents, including those from our shipyards, will be much greater than they ever were before and next year they will be at least twice what they have been for the last year."

About 1,000 men interested in the various phases of the iron and steel industry, heard the Government.

ndustry heard the Government's repreing the coming year with something of a shock. Earlier in the day Judge El-bert H. Gary, president of the institute and chairman of the board of the United States Steel Corporation, had referred to the possibility of the Government taking over control of the industry. Many of over control of the industry. Many of them left the banquet room wondering whether Mr. Replogie's statement was in-tended to prepare them for just such a contingency. Continuing Mr. Replogle said:

"The appointment of Charles M. Schwab as Director-General of Shipbuilding was an epoch in the history of r industry. His appointment caused e greatest consternation among our enemies. But we must furnish him with steel, and I am giad to be able to say that a hundred per cent. of the steel manufacturers of the country are doing their utmost to do this. There is no exception to this. And I want to say here that our President made no more important decision than that our allies were exception to the same price on way are allied to the same price of the Bethlehe Steel Company, urging the conservation of ferro-manganese ores. entitled to the same price on war ma-terial as we were ourselves."

The speaker displayed a poster that e had collected at Johnstown, Ps., dewhat he described as the proper of labor toward the country's cause. Under the picture of a worker the poster carried this caption: "It is not just hats off to the flag, but sleeves rolled up for it." He concluded with a tribute to Charles M. Schwab, Director-General of the Emergency Fleet Cor-poration, and to Bernard M. Baruch, chairman of the War Industries Board.

r. Schwab was accorded an enthusi-c reception. After acknowledging reception by saying that no tithe, gitle or triffe that he had or may con-tribute to the cause of winning the war would have been warranted without the approbation of his friends in the steel industry the Director-General of Ship-

"May wall be the smallest month we will have," he continued. "I think that our programme will satisfy Lloyd George. And I want to say here that last week we have contracted for between $200,000,000 and $250,000,000 worth of work. During last year there was built on the Great Lakes between 400,000 and 500,000 tons of shipping This year we expect there will be more than 1,000,000 tons produced. In Jan-uary of this year there were 60,000 mer employed in shipbuilding work in this country. Now there are 350,000 men working on actual construction, on hulls and other work, and 350,000 more in engine rooms, making nearly three-quar

John J. Fitzgerald, former Congressman, deplored the inclination on the parof some good Americans to criticise Administration.

Gary Sees Bright Puture.

At the opening aession Judge Gary spoke optimistically of the future as far as the relations between the Government and the steel manufacturers were concerned. Judge Gary thought the time was past when the motives and methods of the steel manufacturers were under suspicion by the Government, but did not say that the possibility of Government interference in the industry had passed.

"We don't mind what it costs to win the war so long as the taxes are levied equitably," he declared. "The American steel industry has done a great deal toward this object. The attitude of cooperation taken by the iron and steel industry has had its effect in Washington. There have been times when our whose business was criticised. We read in the newspapers that jt was the disposition of the Government to take over the entire industry and run it. I can't speak for the future. I know it has turned out before that some public officlais have proved incompetent for the positions they occupied and of course we may have reason for apprehension.

"But we can talk of the past and present. Things have been said that were unreasonable and claims were put forward that were not justified by facts, and there were times when there was great danger of our industry being injured, perhaps jeopardized. You have demonstrated what you said—that you contemplated no evil in connection with your management, that it was a cardinal principle of the steel industry to serve the interests of the public. As a rule the public and the press have been spiendid and accorded you credit for true motives. Washington officials have been suppledus, but I believe that time is past. I recall the dark days of 1907.

According to the speaker, there are some $,000,000 employed in the steel and ailied industries throughout the country, half of whom do not know the English language. The proposed bill, to be known as the Federal aid bill, provides that $5,000,000 shall be approximated. ending June 30, 1920, $3,000,000 is to be appropriated on the condition that each State or Territory appropriate an amount equal to its allotment, that the proportion in 1921 be $4,000,000, and $5,000,000 annually thereafter. The bill also provides that 50 per cent. of the money so appropriated be expended for salaries of teachers and supervisors of classes under control of the regular educational authorities.

A number of technical papers dealing with the steel industry were read during the day seasion, including one by C. A. ### TROOPS NEED FISHING RODS.

Y. M. C. A. Secretary Asks Angler to Contribute Tackle.

CAMP DIX, WRIGHTSTOWN, N. J., May 31.—"Lend a fishing rod for a soldier's coliday" is the novel appeal of Secretary Charles O. Wright of Y. M. C. A. Hut No. 3 to sportsmen of New Jersey, New York and Delaware in aid of his plan to provide free equipment for Camp Dix soldiers who wish to vary their Wednesday or Saturday afternoon recess from strenuous training by a fish-ing trip to some of the streams in and near the camp reservation. Many of these waters afford excellent angling.

these waters afford excellent angling, and fishing has become popular with the soldiers.

"How about a fishing trip on your next afternoon holiday? We'll lend you a rod and line. You dig the bait," is the alluring invitation to sportsmen among the soldiers. Bass, pike, crapple and other fish abound near the camp, and the association believes these waters can be made the source of recreation for the soldiers and add to the ation for the soldlers and add to the food supply. Many soldiers have pur chased State fishing licenses.
